

The Oregon Trail Gathering the Mavericks March 2022 dream by Clay Nash

I had a dream March 2022. The dream began with Dutch Sheets creating a thread on Signal titled "Gathering the Mavericks." In the thread Dutch requested those on the thread to meet him in Oregon City, Oregon. (Which happens to be the end of the Oregon trail). Dutch requested we arrive May 7th precisely. Upon arrival he informed us we were there to help gather and drive Maverick Steers back to Independence, Missouri. (Which happens to be the beginning of the Oregon trail). He instructed that the Mavericks must be brought to Independence in order to achieve independence. Dutch stated that as we found the watering holes where the Mavericks were gathered he would assign some to stay at the watering hole to keep other Mavericks that would gather there from muddying up the water holes in the future.

He informed those there that they were to be assigned certain horses to make the journey on. The horse Dutch assigned me was a horse I once had owned. This horse was a full Appaloosa named Judge. He had my King Brand Saddle on him. (I still own this saddle today) Dutch was to ride the prettiest Buckskin I ever remember seeing. When I remarked of the strength and beauty in this horse, Dutch informed us that this horse was a descendent of John Wayne's favorite horse "Sent" and it's name was Messenger. I asked Dutch where the Mavericks were and his answer was, we must find them along the way. He informed us that it was highly strategic we start the journey on May 7th. The Grub wagon was there, packed and ready. Ken Malone pulled Dutch to the side but was within hearing and said, "Isn't that Gordon Lindsey on the Grub wagon?" Dutch answered and said, "Yes, but he can still cook food with Heavenly nourishment and will bring healing along the way if needed." Dutch began to inform those there of the various watering holes they would be dropped off at along the journey. Dutch did not assign me one. I asked why and his answer was, "You know about cattle drives and I need you to scout on the whole journey." (I have never been on a cattle drive)

We headed out 7 minutes after 3. At 3 minutes after 7 we arrived at the first watering hole to discover Mavericks there. Dutch assigned Mary Glazier and Eleanor Roehl to be watchman that night over the Mavericks. The process would repeat until the 12th watering hole which was Independence, Missouri. As we dropped off leaders at watering holes we picked up others who were there waiting. When we arrived at Independence, MO I stated, we must have over 10,000 Mavericks. Dutch informed us that there was actually 12,000 Mavericks and one Oxen. Dutch was asked, what are we to do with them. Dutch informed that they would be disciplined to go forth into the fields ripe unto harvest and disciple the nation. Someone asked what about the Oxen. Dutch informed us the oxen's name was Sign & Wonder and he would follow them in the discipling of the nation. Gordon Lindsey then informed Dutch that his assignment was up but others from the cloud of witnesses would be joining as needed. End of Dream.
