In a season of intensified warfare, those who have been trained, equipped, and activated step forward with renewed conviction, confidence, and clarity of the times.

Those who have been watching and partaking of the preparation, but with limited engagement or activation, as they see the acceleration of warfare, faith will be quickened and they step forward in new ways.

Then those who have watched and listened but not felt the urgency to engage even at a minimal level, will be startled awake by the intensity that is coming forth. Out of the startling they shall rally with urgency and intensity of focus, with ignited passion and faith that has been activated to spring into action.

Watch over these next weeks and months to see those coming out of the ranks of those who have not been engaged to find their place of engagement with a desperation to be trained, equipped, and mobilized.

Leaders, be prepared and ready to respond to the various opportunities that come to you in these months. Move with faith, not fear. Move with confidence, not shrinking back, but moving forward keeping your eyes upon Me every step of the way to know when, where, and how to move.
