

The Shout that Shatters

Dream by Gina Gholston

This morning I was awakened from a dream in which I was with a large group of people, and we began to join hands and form a circle around a huge map of the USA. The map was moving about, as if being shaken by a very strong wind. It seemed as though the map would be ripped apart by the adverse wind. Then there was a sudden surge of the anointing of Holy Spirit that came over us, and I heard the Lord say, “Release a shout that shatters, dismantles, and causes evil agendas to fall and crumble!”

Instantly we lifted our united hands toward Heaven and we released a loud and long shout of praise unto the Lord! As we did this, the map settled down and then began to rise. (Note: I felt this symbolized a sudden shift—a necessary change.)

And the Lord instructed us: “Take hold of My covenantal promises, release the shout of triumph, and walls of opposition will fall, giving you access to this land. I am giving you a moment in which to advance with My purposes. The time is now.”

When I woke up, I was immediately led to read Joshua 6. There is a sense of urgency that I am feeling. A sense that we have been allotted a time, and an urgency that we must follow Holy Spirit very intently and precisely within that time frame!
